Policy/Procedures

The broad principles in this policy encompass all varieties of situations. Many of these situations do not fall into patterns for which specific guidelines may be established. Some areas of overlapping interest that inevitably arise from time to time in everyday business life either are inconsequential or even may be advantageous to the university. It is important, however, that all employees make due and timely disclosure of any such overlapping interest. Basically, this calls for each employee to apply his/her sense of integrity and his/her common sense in giving notice of any circumstances that are, may become, or even might give the appearance of a possible conflict of interest.

The university has confidence in the loyalty and integrity of all members of its staff. Proof of their high ethical standards has been demonstrated on many occasions and accounts for the high standards that the university has maintained so effectively over the years. The Board of Trustees is pleased to confirm the traditional policy of the university so as to create a uniform method for all non-faculty employees to register their conformance with this standard.

The Board policy for non-faculty employees is that any circumstance that does or may involve a conflict of interest in the conduct of university business, or that may create an appearance of involving such a conflict, shall be reported to the employee’s direct supervisor in writing in advance of any university action regarding the subject of the conflict. In addition, the party reporting such actual or potential conflict, or the appearance of a conflict, shall not participate in the university’s deliberations or decision regarding the matter that is the subject of such report, except to answer questions or where such continued participation is approved by the direct supervisor. Supervisors similarly should report and elevate issues regarding actual or potential conflicts to higher authorities as appropriate to the nature of the situation.

Supplementing the above broad policy statements are the following rules to be observed on specific matters.

1. Employees shall disclose any interest in any business or financial enterprise that might influence or give the impression of influencing his/her official decisions or actions on University matters.

2. Employees shall avoid any business activity or investment that may in any way conflict or compete with the investment, expansion and/or property acquisition plans or intentions of the university. He/she shall refrain from the purchase or sale of securities or real or personal property that is based on confidential information or special knowledge of the university's investment intentions, or when such purchase or sale is so timed that he/she might be regarded as attempting to profit by using such knowledge.

3. Employees shall refrain from unauthorized disclosure of any confidential information concerning the university's intentions on investments, property acquisitions, purchasing, or contracting for supplies and services, or any other confidential university information.

4. Employees shall avoid outside employment or business activities involving obligations that may in any way conflict with the interests of the university.

5. Employees may not accept any gift, travel, meal, lodging, service, entertainment, payment of expenses, or any other thing with a value exceeding $250.00 (collectively “gift”) from any person or entity doing business or seeking to do business with the university, unless acceptance is approved as provided below. Gifts of cash or cash equivalents in any amount may not be accepted, except that bona fide awards or honoraria may be accepted if approved under this policy. The phrase "any person or entity doing business or seeking to do business" shall not be construed to include federal, state or local governmental entities or nonprofit professional membership organizations.

Members of employees’ households shall refrain from accepting any gift that an employee may not accept under this policy if the offer of the gift is related to the employee’s GW employment.

An employee who wishes to accept a gift described above should seek approval from his or her direct supervisor, or from the Compliance & Privacy Office if the employee is uncomfortable discussing the situation with the supervisor. When the supervisor, or the Compliance & Privacy Office, believes that acceptance is appropriate and in the interest of the university, the approval of the appropriate Vice President shall be requested. The Vice President should determine whether acceptance of the gift poses a significant risk of a conflict of interest or a potential conflict of interest, considering, among other things: The nature of the person or entity offering the gift; the employee’s relationship to the person or entity; the employee’s official GW responsibilities; whether the gift is an honorarium or award; whether the gift is for attendance at a widely-attended gathering involving no additional travel expenses; and the purpose of the gift. The Vice President may consult with the Office of the Senior Vice President and General Counsel in deciding whether to approve acceptance and shall notify the Compliance & Privacy Office when approvals are granted.

The Vice Presidents and others who report directly to the President shall request approval of the President. The President may assign a Vice President other than the requesting Vice President to review any such requests for approval.
CONFLICT OF INTEREST POLICY FOR NON-FACULTY EMPLOYEES

Annually each officer, management employee and other employees designated by the President, the Executive Vice President and Treasurer, or the Senior Vice President and General Counsel of the university shall respond to an appropriate questionnaire incorporating the above rules. These rules are designed to cover most situations, but special or unusual circumstances may arise, and the Board or the President may issue supplemental rules for particular situations if deemed appropriate. If at any time employees have questions about the proper application of the university's policy on conflict of interest with respect to any particular situation, they shall immediately make all the facts known to their supervisors, or to the Compliance & Privacy Office, and be guided by the instructions they receive.

Suspected violations of this policy and the basis for the concern should be communicated to appropriate higher-level supervisors and/or to the Compliance & Privacy Office.

The annual Conflict of Interest Disclosure Questionnaire assists in the implementation of the university Conflict of Interest Policy for Non-Faculty Employees. The policy requires specified staff members annually to report non-university activities and interests that could create conflicting loyalties, commitments, or responsibilities, or have the potential to create the appearance of conflicting loyalties, commitments, or responsibilities. Some of these activities could affect or appear to affect the staff member’s independent, unbiased judgment when making decisions on behalf of the university.

The object of this reporting is to assist the university in ensuring that any outside activities and interests relating to entities outside the George Washington University are properly disclosed and managed and compatible with your university employment. This Questionnaire also includes the annual certifications required by the university’s Debarment and Suspension Policy. After reviewing this Questionnaire, a member of the staff of the Compliance & Privacy Office or of the Office of the Senior Vice President and General Counsel may seek clarification or additional information from you.

Policy information and guidance for completing the Questionnaire are contained in the links below. Capitalized terms are specifically defined in the Definitions link and appear in bold throughout the Questionnaire. If you experience technical difficulties with the online reporting system or have questions about these policies or the annual reporting process, please contact the Compliance & Privacy Office at 202-994-3386 or comply@gwu.edu for assistance.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What is a Conflict of Interest?
A conflict of interest may arise when a staff member is or may be in a position to influence university business, research, or other decisions in ways that could lead to personal gain for you or a Family Member, or give improper advantage to others to the university's detriment. Another type of conflict of interest is a conflict of commitment, which may arise when external or other activities and undertakings of a staff member are so substantial or demanding of the staff member's time and attention that they deprive the university of appropriate time and effort.

What activities should be reported?
The following are examples of non-university activities that should be reported.
• Relationships with companies that do business or might by their nature seek to do business with the university;
• Service as an officer, director, or trustee of another entity;
• Ownership of, significant financial interest in, management of, or employment by another entity; and
• Outside research or consulting.

Other activities may need to be reported as well; this list is designed to assist your thought process as you evaluate your activities outside work, but is not exhaustive. If you are not certain whether a particular activity should be reported, please include it, or consult with the university Compliance & Privacy Office (202-994-3386, or comply@gwu.edu).

How should I report my outside activities?
If you become aware of, or may be entering into, an arrangement that could pose a conflict or the appearance thereof, you should bring it to the attention of your direct supervisor as soon as possible. Your supervisor will work with you to evaluate whether a conflict exists and notify the Compliance & Privacy Office if deemed appropriate. If you are uncomfortable discussing the situation with your supervisor, you should promptly discuss the situation with the Compliance & Privacy Office, which will work with you directly. All existing and new activities that may pose a conflict or appear to do so should also be reported annually on this Questionnaire.

Who will have access to the information I report on this Questionnaire?
This information will be reviewed by the Compliance & Privacy Office and the Office of the Senior Vice President and General Counsel and may be shared with other university offices as appropriate, as well as the Board of Trustees Committee on Finance and Audit. The university may also be required, as part of its reporting or disclosure requirements, to provide this information to government entities.

Whom can I contact for more information about conflict of interest rules or for help completing the Conflict of Interest Questionnaire?
You should feel free to contact the university Compliance & Privacy Office (202-994-3386 or comply@gwu.edu) for guidance regarding the completion of this Questionnaire and general reporting obligations.
