Policy

The university accepts Gifts that promote the university’s goals as an independent academic institution dedicated to furthering human well-being. The university seeks Gifts that support the university’s commitment to excellence in the creation, dissemination, and application of knowledge, and that support a dynamic, student-focused community stimulated by cultural and intellectual diversity and built upon a foundation of integrity, creativity, and openness to the exploration of new ideas. However, the types and purposes of assets donated may affect the university’s ability to accept particular Gifts, such as when they include:

- A. Use restrictions that are inconsistent with university policies or that violate federal or state laws
- B. Issues with the types of asset received
- C. Restrictions on asset disposition
- D. Requirements for future maintenance costs

Gifts Inconsistent with University Policies or Goals

The university reserves the right to refuse or return to donors Gifts with functions or goals that are inconsistent with those of the university. Gifts containing use restrictions that are inconsistent with the university’s goals or objectives may be refused or returned. The university will not accept Gifts that would restrict the educational process, be inconsistent with university policies, or violate the law.

Gift Agreements

The university requires signed Gift Agreements for all Gifts of $50,000 or more requiring the creation of a new fund, and for all Gifts that include naming opportunities, with the exception of Gifts of realized bequests. Gifts at this level require university approvals through the division of Development and Alumni Relations (“DAR”) Gift Agreement process. DAR Gift Agreement templates should be used whenever possible to establish Agreements with donors.

The DAR Gift Agreement process identifies issues that require review and approval of university leaders before a proposed Gift will be accepted. Depending on the nature of the issues identified, collateral review and approval may be required. The list of approvers or their designated representatives can be found in the DAR Gift Acceptance Protocol.

Gift Acceptance Committee

The role of the Gift Acceptance Committee (the "Committee") is to review proposed Gifts upon request by the Vice President for DAR. The Committee is authorized to decide whether or not to accept Gifts covered by this policy. Any proposed Gift may be brought to the Committee for its review in advance of acceptance. The Committee receives its authority from the university Board of Trustees.

Types of Assets Received, Restrictions on Asset Disposition, or Requirements for Future Maintenance

The following types of Gifts may not be accepted without approval through the DAR Gift Agreement process:

- A. Any Gift offered with restriction on disposition and/or future maintenance requirements.
- B. Gifts of Intangible Personal Property, such as partnership interests, patents, or royalties.
- C. Gifts of Tangible Personal Property, such as paintings, other works of art, or collectibles that are donated on the condition or expectation that the items will be permanently exhibited, or that the collections will be maintained and exhibited in a specific manner.
- D. Gifts of Real Estate or other Real Property.
- E. Non-cash Gifts that would require the university to incur transfer costs.
